Respect for others

We have school values for a very important reason. These values aren't just to put up around the school and display on our website they provide us with the expected behaviours for all members of our school community. We are diverse and we embrace this diversity through our different religious, cultural and social backgrounds, our gender and sexual orientation, age and abilities. The majority of the time our children play safely and respectfully at school. But, on occasion, we experience some actions and choices that are unkind or unsafe. At a school level, we make it clear that these behaviours are unacceptable and that's a conversation all of us can have. Messages between home and school need to be consistent in order to help our children develop skills to become positive, respectful and safe citizens. Showing respect and kindness helps us work through the things that make us different and in turn to have healthy relationships with each other into the future.

Ride2School Day is next week Friday the 23rd March

Introducing the Ride2School day leadership team from the 4/5/6 class: Nasreen, Yasin, Farhiya, Anugraha, Sa'Dia, Ibtisam, Samira, Hamza, Khubayb and Azhar

Ibtisam and Khubayb from 4/5/6 have some ideas for why it's important to celebrate Ride2School day...

- It makes you healthier because it uses your muscles and increases your heart rate
- It helps you to connect with other students at school
- Helps keep you focused with your learning
- It's a great day for you and the school community because it's so exciting
- Increases happiness levels-a happy and healthy life because you're using your body, and not getting the exercise you need if you are on public transport or going to school in the car.

Interview with Lauren Keim about riding to school By Farhiya, Nasreen and Sa'Dia

Q1. Do you enjoy riding your bike? Yes I love it! Q2. Do you have a name for your bike? Hilda the black bike Q3. How old were you when you got your first bike? I got my first bike for Christmas when I was 6 years old Q4. Do you ride anywhere else besides school? Yes, I ride when I am going out for dinner

Q5. Why do you ride your bike to school? It keeps me healthy

Good for the environment because it means that there are less cars It's fun and keeps me sane!

Book: Hannah Montana, Seeing Green

Why should other people read this book?

- I really like the $\frac{1}{2}$ Hannah Montana
- books because they are interesting and they 🖕 are easy to read. This is my third Hannah Montana book and it is about Hannah sneaking $\frac{1}{2}$ out to the cinema with her friends. She sees $\frac{1}{2}$ her dad there at the cinema and she gets into ☆ lots trouble.
