A visit from the Australian treasurer

Recently Carlton Learning Precinct was the venue chosen by treasurer, Jim Chalmers, to launch a new federal government initiative called "Place". This initiative will use federal funds and philanthropic money to address systemic disadvantage. As the treasurer said "Too many kids are trapped in the cycle of generational disadvantage" The new place-based approach involves the partnering of governments and communities to develop long term and collaborative solutions to social issues, tailored to each individual communities' needs. This is work that Carlton Primary has been doing for many years and which has been further expanded since the partnership with Our Place in 2020. The reason that Carlton Learning Precinct was chosen for the launch is that it is such an excellent example of a "one stop shop" with multiple organisations co-located and working in partnership to support families to thrive. A big thank you to the CPS families who got up early to welcome the treasurer and his colleagues to the learning precinct and helped us to show CLP in action.

Swimming notes

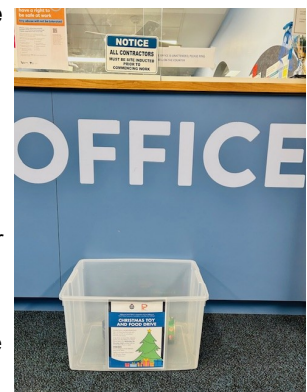

If you haven't yet returned your children's swimming information forms, please do so this week. Planning is well under way for the swimming program, which will be starting in just a few weeks at the Carlton Baths

True & Pretend story sharing

Next Friday is our Story Hubs celebration of the work done this semester in the P-3 area on oral language development. Students and staff have written and recorded true and pretend stories. Come along and see if you can tell the fact from the fiction!

Xmas food and toy drive

The school once again is supporting Melbourne North Police in their collection of new toys and non perishable food. These donated goods will be put into hampers for families in need. Last year the CPS community was very generous in their donations. A box is in the reception area outside the office for your donations.

Warm regards,

Julie Large
Co Principal
